Although it may be a profitable, it is not a pleasant reflection that, however gay and joyous we may be at the present, our tendency is ever toward the tomb. Mr. George Calvert, of Fauquier county, Virginia, exhibits, as at the former fair of the Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, a collection of his patent beehives, and choice specimens of honey which he solicits his friends to taste. The invita tion is never declined.

A Desperate Character.-A young vellow fellow, named George Raglin, created much alarm on Pennsylvania avenue, on Wednesday night, by flourishing a hand-saw to the right and left, making every one on the pavement get out of his way! Occasionally, he would deal a blow with the instrument on some passer-by whom he did not fancy. No one had the nerve to arrest him in his progress. He was extraordinarily bold under the influence of alcoholic drink; did not care for anybody, and seemed to claim the freedom to as sault with impunity. Officer A. R. Allen, an efficient public officer, was at the Smithsonian Institution when he heard of the exploits of this discharged penitentiary bird. He hastened to the scene of the exploits, and endeavored at once to capture the offender, who made a desperate resistance. The parties came to close quarters, both fell to the pavement, and struggled together, the officer uppermost. He sent to the watchhouse for help, and obtained it, two of the Auxiliary Guard coming to the rescue. They "came, and kam, and conquered."

Raglin was conveyed to the lock-up, and yes terday morning was committed to jail to await trial for resisting the officer.

Though he is not a relative of the British Gen eral, Lord Raglan, he, to say the least, showed some of the bellicose propensities of that distinguished soldier and namesake.

The Rechabites.—The District Tent of the temperance organization, (the jurisdiction of which extends over the District of Columbia, and portions of Maryland and Virginia) at its quarterly session, on Wednesday night, elected the following officers for the term of one year:

John R. Elvans, P. D. C. R.; Dr. J. Hall Moore, D. C. R.; Dr. S. A. H. McKim, D. D. R.; George C. Hennin, D. R. S.; Joseph D. Free, D. F. S. George F. Kidwell, D. T.; John I. Langley, D. THIRTY-THIRD CONGRESS. SECOND SESSION.

Senate-Thursday, February 16, 1855. Mr. HOUSTON made a personal explanation, which he deemed necessary in consequence of some aspersions upon himself in a pamphlet written by Thomas Jefferson Green, which was laid upon the tables of senators this moraing. The subject is not new to the Senate and to the country; and it will be recollected that the quarrel had as origin in Texas, when the State was an independent republic.

The bill to augment the salaries of the Chief Justice and Associate Judges of the United States Supreme Court, which was originally part of the bill to increase the compensation of members of Congress, was taken up and passed.

A bill was reported from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, recognising the diplomatic services of Commodore Perry, and proposing to give him $25,000.

After the transaction of other business,
The Senate, at one o'clock, resumed the consideration of the special order—the bill making appropriations for the Indian Department; and, after disposing of several amendments, the bill was reported to the Senate, and the amendments made as in Committee of the Whole were again subjected to discussion. Having been disposed of the bill was passed.

Mr. FAULKNER made an ineffectual effort to have this bill set aside for the purpose of proceeding with the consideration of the Army appropriation bill, urging that, in time of war, bills to raise men and money for the prosecution of hostilities must have the preference. There was an Indian war now in progress.

On motion by Mr. OLDS, the civil and diplomatic bill was set aside, and that making appropriations for the transportation of the United States mail by ocean steamers and otherwise, during the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1856, was taken up.
Mr. OLDS offered an amendment, to the effect

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMER ASIA.

One Week Later from Etrope. As predicted by the last arrival, the resignation of Lord John Russell has been followed by that of the entire ministry, and up to the latest moment prior to the sailing of the steamer, no new cabinet had been constructed. Lord Derby had been sent for and invited to form a new ministry, but he was Lords Palmerston, Russell and Lausdowne are

On the evening of Tuesday the 30th of January, Mr. Robuck's motion expressing a want of confidence in the ministry was resumed in the House of Commons. istry at once resigned.

The resignations of the ministers were accepted and Lord Aberdeen and the cabinet only hold office until the new ministry is formed.

The same evening of the action in the House the Queen sent for the Earl of Derby, the leader of the conservatives, and on Wednesday Earl Derby waited on the Queen, and after an interview of two hours he drove to the residence of Lord Palmerston, when a lengthened conference took place. The general rumor was that Lord Palmerston would not assent to the terms proposed and consequently the former would not be able to form a sufficiently strong cabinet. Various rumors followed, pointing to Lord Palmerston, Lord Russell, and lastly to Lord Lansdowne, as those who would probably be placed at the head of the ministry.

Both Houses of Parliament adjourned from Tuesday until Thursday. On reassembling, Lord Aberdeen briefly announced his resignation. The Duke of Newcastle also entered into an explanaion in self-defense. Lord Derby then informed the House that be had been invited by the Queen to form a cabinet, but he could not do so.

The friends of the Aberdeen ministry are dead against Russell for breaking up the coamition.

The Queen is reported to have written Lord Russell an autograph letter censuring his conduct but this is doubted.

The latest proceedings in Parliament were to the second reading of a bill to give effect to the reciprocity treaty.

Diplomacy and Negotiations. There is no fighting of consequence to record, but important diplomatic scenes are going on which has checkmated Austria. In the session of the general committee of the Germanic Diet, the proposition of Austria for the general mobilization of the federal army was rejected, and that of Prussia to place the contingents only on the war footing was carried against Austria.

Some anxiety was felt as to what course Austria will pursue, as this check prevents the Empe rra will pursue, as this check prevents the Emperor of Austria from having the expected command of the Federal army.
